

Japan position about developing GTR recommendation on Battery Durability

International harmonization of regulation is important, so Japan supports the activity to develop GTR in general, however, the purpose and requirements of GTR for battery durability has not been clarified and there is little data for technical discussion so far.

Under these circumstances, Japan proposes to move forward taking steps as follows:

- 1. Clarification and discussion about the purpose, work process, and schedule in detail
- 2. Based on the discussions, the next action plan to be decided
